AMY ADAMS STRUNK

CONTROLLING OWNER/
BOARD OF DIRECTORS CO-CHAIRMAN

Amy Adams Strunk is the Controlling Owner of the Tennessee Titans. She assumed the role of controlling owner in March 2015 and also serves as co-chairman of the franchise's Board of Directors.

Daughter of Titans franchise founder K.S. "Bud" Adams, Jr., Adams Strunk was raised on football and is proud of her father's role in co-founding the American Football League and the decades of leadership he provided within the National Football League. Her goal is to build upon that legacy and establish the Titans as one of the league's elite franchises.

In her time as controlling owner, Adams Strunk transformed the franchise. The Titans went from a three-win team in 2015 to posting six consecutive winning seasons (2016-21), a trip to the AFC Championship game in 2019, back-to-back division titles (2020, 2021), and the top seed in the AFC in the 2021 NFL Playoffs.

Adams Strunk's dedication to enabling a modern, innovative business has facilitated significant growth in the organization's staff, increasing by over 150 percent since 2015. Over the years, she has committed significant resources to upgrade Nissan Stadium and the team's headquarters, Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park. In 2023, her direction was instrumental in state and local government approval of a new, enclosed stadium on the east bank of the Cumberland River, which is slated to open in 2027.

In the spring of 2018, she collaborated with Nashville city officials to secure the 2019 NFL Draft for downtown Nashville. The Titans and the NFL transformed lower Broadway into one of the most dynamic and successful drafts in NFL history.

Impacting communities has also been an important centerpiece of her ownership tenure, with both monetary and in-kind donations pledged to the Waverly community after its 2021 flooding disaster, tornado relief to Middle Tennessee in 2022, local business support during the effects of COVID-19, and a number of other causes benefitting the Nashville and greater Tennessee communities.

A graduate of the University of Texas with a degree in history, Adams Strunk is an avid horse enthusiast whose other interests include farming, ranching, tennis, and a variety of other outdoor activities.

She is married to her husband, Bill. She has three children, Tracy, Tommy, and Blanche, who are all avid sports fans and outdoor enthusiasts.

BURKE NIHILL

PRESIDENT AND CEO

Burke Nihill is President and Chief Executive Officer for the Tennessee Titans. During his time with the Titans, Nihill has overseen the team's bid for Nashville's record-breaking 2019 NFL Draft; the expansion and renovation of Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park, the Titans practice facility; and the approval, design, and construction of the team's new, enclosed stadium as the anchor of a transformational new town center on Nashville's East Bank.

Among his first projects as CEO, Nihill led the team's development of a new mission statement – "Win, Serve, Entertain" – which has become a centering statement for the franchise. The statement guides strategy and decision-making throughout the organization, from the football team and content creators to human resources and fan engagement.

In his previous roles with the team, Burke led the club's legal and human resources functions and worked on club initiatives related to state and local government, company culture, and general business planning and strategy for both the Titans and Nissan Stadium.

Before joining the Titans, Burke worked in various legal and management roles across a range of industries, including technology, big-box retail and professional services.

Nihill was recently named 'Most Admired CEO' by the Nashville Business Journal. He also serves on the Board of Directors at the United Way of Greater Nashville, Nashville Convention & Visitors Corp., Belmont University, Nashville Chamber of Commerce, and Nashville Major Events Committee.

He resides in the Nashville area with his wife, Holly, and their three children.

As President of Football Operations, Brinker provides executive leadership and direct oversight for the entire football staff, reporting directly to Titans Controlling Owner Amy Adams Strunk.

Since his arrival in Tennessee, Brinker's progressive approach has led to several initiatives aimed at moving the organization forward. He spearheaded the club's extensive search for a new general manager in 2025, resulting in the hiring of Mike Borgonzi. Brinker was also a pillar in the team's comprehensive search for Head Coach Brian Callahan in 2024. Additionally, he reshaped and refined the foundation of the team's analytics department from the ground up, while building and executing the 2024 and 2025 offseason strategies for player acquisitions in both free agency and the draft.

An NFL personnel veteran, Brinker embodies core strengths focused in executive leadership, strategic operations, financial analysis, and talent evaluation. His dual background in football operations merged with a business acumen gained from an MBA at Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management further developed his skills as a team builder and strategic leader both on and off the field.

Prior to joining the Titans, Brinker spent 13 years with the Green Bay Packers in a variety of roles as a talent evaluator and strategic counselor to Packers leadership. In his initial season with the Packers, he collected his first Super Bowl championship when the team defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers in Super Bowl XLV.

Throughout his experience with the Packers, he served as a pro and college scout; led strategy for unrestricted free agency and undrafted free agent processes; handled player contracts, salary cap administration, and roster management; and advised the General Manager and Executive Vice President of Football Operations on team needs in free agency and drafts, always with an eye on long-term vision. The Packers won the NFC North Division eight times and drafted 13 Pro Bowl Players during his tenure.

Brinker also owns corporate business experience with two Fortune 100 companies in the pharmaceutical and medical device industries.

He serves as an Executive Council Member on the Freed-Hardeman University President's Council and has shared his expertise as a guest lecturer in the Sports Marketing program at Freed-Hardeman and the Sports Administration program at his alma mater, Ohio University.

A native of Martins Ferry, Ohio, Brinker first entered the NFL in 2003 as an undrafted free agent running back with the New York Jets. He holds two degrees from Ohio University, including a master's degree in sports administration, where he was a two-sport athlete and a two-time All-Mid-American Conference selection at running back. He was also selected as Ohio University's Male Athlete of the Year in 2003.

MIKE BORGONZI

GENERAL MANAGER

Mike Borgonzi was named the 15th General Manager in franchise history on Jan. 17, 2025.

Borgonzi arrived in Tennessee with 16 years of experience with the Kansas City Chiefs. During his final four seasons in Kansas City, he served as Assistant General Manager.

"Mike's experience speaks for itself: he has been part of the core team that delivered five AFC championships and three Super Bowls over the past six seasons," said Titans Controlling Owner Amy Adams Strunk. "It's the type of standard I want to build here in Tennessee. I know we have a lot of work ahead of us, and I'm excited for Mike to get started."

"During Mike's 16 years in the league, he has been a key part of transforming the Chiefs from a two-win team to a three-time Super Bowl champion," said Titans President of Football Operations Chad Brinker. "During our meetings, he articulated a clear plan to build a championship standard in Nashville through consistency, discipline and hard work. I've admired him for many years and I'm thrilled to add him to the team as our general manager."

During Borgonzi's time in Kansas City, he contributed to 12 playoff seasons (2010, 2013, 2015-24) and 10 AFC West titles (2010, 2016-24). Borgonzi helped construct a roster over a five-season span that won the AFC five times (2019-20, 2022-24) and captured three Super Bowl championships (2019, 2022-23).

For the last eight seasons (2017-24), Borgonzi worked under Chiefs General Manager Brett Veach. As the Assistant General Manager from 2021 through 2024, he supervised and directed the college and professional scouting operations while closely supporting and advising Veach with the club's roster management and player acquisition via the NFL Draft, free agency, waiver claims and trades. During his four seasons as Assistant General Manager, the Chiefs built a league-best 52-16 regular-season record (.765). In the same four-year span, 10 different Kansas City players earned a combined 23 Pro Bowl selections: tackle Orlando Brown Jr. (2021-22), wide receiver Tyreek Hill (2021), center Creed Humphrey (2022-24), defensive tackle Chris Jones (2021-24), tight end Travis Kelce (2021-24), quarterback Patrick Mahomes (2021-23), safety Tyrann Mathieu (2021), guard Trey Smith (2024), guard Joe Thuney (2022-24) and punter Tommy Townsend (2022).

The Chiefs entered the 2024 postseason after capturing their ninth consecutive AFC West crown. They tied the Detroit Lions for the NFL's best record at 15-2, setting a franchise record for wins in a regular season and securing the AFC's top seed. Twenty original Chiefs draft picks started at least six games for the team during the 2024 regular season. Kansas City had five players voted to the Pro Bowl, marking the seventh consecutive year in which it had at least five players earn the honor.

Prior to his promotion to Assistant General Manager, Borgonzi served as Director of Football Operations (2018-20), Director of Player Personnel (2017), Co-Director of Player Personnel (2015-16), Assistant Director of Pro Scouting (2013-14), Pro Personnel Scout (2011-12) and Manager of Football Operations (2010). He joined the Chiefs in 2009 as the club's College Scouting Administrator.

Before landing in the NFL with the Chiefs, Borgonzi spent the 2007 and 2008 seasons at Boston College, where he was the Assistant Recruiting Coordinator. He also coached tight ends at Amherst College in 2002 before working in the financial sector in Boston for several years.

A native of Everett, Mass., Borgonzi graduated from Brown University, where he was a four-year starter at fullback and was a three-time All-Ivy League selection.

He and his wife, Jill, have a son, Joseph, and a daughter, Nina. His brother, Dave, has served as the Linebackers Coach for the Indianapolis Colts and Chicago Bears and currently serves as the Linebackers Coach for the Dallas Cowboys.

BRIAN CALLAHAN

HEAD COACH

Brian Callahan enters his second season with the Titans in 2025. He was hired as the 20th head coach in franchise history on Jan. 24, 2024.

Callahan arrived in Tennessee with 18 total years of coaching experience and 14 years of NFL coaching experience, including the previous five seasons (2019-23) as the offensive coordinator for the Cincinnati Bengals.

During his first season as head coach, Callahan guided a team that underwent significant personnel changes from 2023 to 2024. In Week 1, 11 players started for the team who were added during the 2024 offseason—five players on offense and six on defense. Two of those players on offense, running back Tony Pollard (1,079 rushing yards) and wide receiver Calvin Ridley (1,017 receiving yards), went on to produce 1,000-yard seasons rushing and receiving, respectively.

All seven members of the Titans' 2024 draft class saw action in at least seven games as rookies. First-rounder JC Latham was the NFL's only rookie in 2024 to start 17 games at left tackle, while second-rounder T'Vondre Sweat appeared in every game and led all rookie defensive linemen in defensive snaps (667). Fifth-round cornerback Jarvis Brownlee Jr. was one of five NFL rookie defensive backs to start at least 14 games in 2024.

During his time in Cincinnati, Callahan served under head coach Zac Taylor and was part of two AFC North titles, two AFC Championship appearances and a Super Bowl berth. He also helped guide quarterback Joe Burrow from the No. 1 overall draft pick in 2020 to multiple single-season franchise records by his second year and Pro Bowl honors within three years.

"Brian has a track record of success and a range of experience that has prepared him for this opportunity," said Titans controlling owner Amy Adams Strunk at the time he was hired. "His football knowledge and his enthusiasm for the game really stand out, and beyond that, we think his ability to lead will make him the ideal fit for our franchise.

"If you look at his history, Brian has been a part of a Super Bowl winning team (Denver, 2015) and two other teams that advanced to the Super Bowl (Denver, 2013; Cincinnati, 2021). He's worked in a variety of dynamic offenses with top-flight quarterbacks. At each step of his career, he's shown the flexibility and intelligence to make an impact.

"During his time with the Bengals, he was trusted with a number of responsibilities—offensive design, quarterback development, a contributor to the free agency and draft processes—and showed the ability to be a resource in all of those areas. As we seek sustained success and pursue a championship, Brian has seen firsthand what that looks like, and he is the right person to lead us there."

In the three seasons (2021-23) prior to Callahan joining the Titans, the Bengals offense ranked in the NFL's top 10 in several categories: sixth in scoring (24.9), seventh in passing (250.8 yards per game), seventh in red-zone efficiency (61.5 percent), 10th in third-down percentage (41.0) and sixth in time of possession (31:00).

From the time Burrow entered the NFL in 2020 through the 2023 campaign, he recorded the league's seventh-best passer rating (98.6) and tied for the third-best completion percentage (68.0). His 270.8 passing yards per game in that period ranked fifth.

Additionally, Cincinnati's offense under Callahan featured a trio of 1,000-yard wide receivers in Ja'Marr Chase (2021-23), Tee Higgins (2021-22) and Tyler Boyd (2019). Chase quickly emerged as one of the NFL's top wide receivers after being drafted in the first round in 2021. He earned three consecutive Pro Bowl nods and became the eighth player in NFL history to reach 1,000 receiving yards in each of his first three career seasons, including 1,216 yards on a career-high 100 receptions in 2023. Boyd's statistical highlights included 1,046 receiving yards in 2019, while Higgins contributed 1,091 yards in 2021 and 1,029 yards in 2022.

Bengals running back Joe Mixon exceeded 1,000 scrimmage yards four times in five seasons with Callahan as his offensive coordinator. From 2019 through 2023, he joined Christian McCaffrey and Aaron Jones as the NFL's only players with at least 4,500 rushing yards (4,618) and 1,500 receiving yards (1,556). Mixon was named to the Pro Bowl in 2021.

In 2023, Burrow was limited to 10 total games due to multiple injuries. Backup Jake Browning stepped into the lineup, and in the first action of his career, he registered a season passer rating of 98.4—qualifying as the seventh-best number in the NFL.

In 2022, the Bengals ranked seventh in the NFL in points per game (26.1), eighth in total offense (360.5 yards per game) and fifth in passing offense (265.0). Burrow earned his first career Pro Bowl selection while setting single-season franchise records for completions (414) and touchdown passes (35). The third-year signal caller also placed fifth in the NFL with 4,475 passing yards. The team's new-look offensive line came together during the season and did not allow more than two sacks in any of the final eight games of the regular season.

En route to an appearance in Super Bowl LVI, the 2021 Bengals ranked seventh in passing offense (259.0 yards per game) and tied for seventh in points per game (27.1). Burrow, after returning from a knee injury suffered in 2020, led the NFL in completion percentage (70.4) and established single-season Bengals records for passing yards (4,611) and passer rating (108.3). Chase was named the AP Offensive Rookie of the Year after posting a team-record 1,455 receiving yards, while Mixon placed third in the NFL in rushing yards (1,205).

In 2020, Callahan helped develop Burrow as a rookie despite facing the challenges associated with the COVID-19 pandemic, including the cancellation of all in-person NFL offseason programs. Before a knee injury ended his rookie campaign in Week 11, Burrow's 264 completions were the most ever by an NFL quarterback through his first 10 career games, while his 2,688 passing yards were fifth.

Callahan joined the Bengals after spending 2018 as the quarterbacks coach for the Oakland Raiders. Under his tutelage, Raiders quarterback Derek Carr passed for a then-career-high 4,049 yards and led the AFC with a 68.9 completion percentage.

From 2016 to 2017, Callahan was the quarterbacks coach for the Detroit Lions. Working with Matthew Stafford, he helped the veteran finish third in passing yards (4,446) and fourth in passing touchdowns (29) in 2017, while posting a then-career-best 99.3 passer rating. In 2016, Stafford's eight game-winning drives were the most by a quarterback in a season since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger.

Callahan broke into the NFL with the Denver Broncos in 2010 and served in multiple roles for the franchise through 2015. He began as a coaching assistant (2010) before transitioning to offensive quality control coach (2011-12), offensive assistant coach (2013-14) and finally offensive assistant/quarterbacks coach (2015). In 2013, Broncos quarterback Peyton Manning won the AP NFL MVP award after completing a league-record 55 touchdown passes. Callahan's tenure in Denver was capped by the team's victory in Super Bowl 50 following the 2015 campaign.

Before reaching the NFL, Callahan spent time at his alma mater, UCLA, as a graduate assistant in 2006 and 2007. He then spent two years (2008-09) as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for Junipero Serra High School in San Mateo, Calif.

As a former walk-on quarterback at UCLA, he appeared in 13 games as a holder on PATs. He earned a bachelor's degree in sociology in 2006 and added a master's in education in 2008.

Born in Champaign, Ill., Callahan attended De La Salle High School in Concord, Calif., where he was a part of the school's national-record 151-game winning streak and a No. 1 national ranking.

He and his wife, Allyson, have a son, Ronan, and a daughter, Norah. He is the son of longtime NFL coach Bill Callahan, the current offensive line coach with the Titans.

(1994 - 2011) with the Green Bay Packers, rising in the ranks from Pro Personnel Assistant (1994-96) to Director of Pro Personnel (1997-2007) and finally Director of Football Operations (2008-11). In his final role with the team, McKenzie oversaw Green Bay's scouting efforts as well as evaluating current players and potential free agents, working closely with the head coach and general manager in day-to-day transactions and in preparation for the NFL Draft. During his time in Green Bay, the team earned eight division titles, three conference championships and two Super Bowls (XXXI and XLV), while totaling the second-best record (185-103) in the NFL over that period.

In 2012, the Raiders hired McKenzie as General Manager, a role he maintained for seven seasons (2012-18). Oakland's first general manager since Al Davis assumed the role in 1963, McKenzie was named the NFL's Executive of the Year by Sporting News, The MMQB and the PFWA (Pro Football Writers Association) in 2016 as the Raiders posted a 12-4 record and their first playoff appearance in 14 years. The players drafted during McKenzie's tenure include 2016 AP Defensive Player of the Year linebacker Khalil Mack (2014), quarterback Derek Carr (2014), and wide receiver Amari Cooper (2015), the latter two receiving three Pro Bowl honors, respectively, while under McKenzie. The Raiders also signed offensive tackle Donald Penn (2014) and offensive guard Kelechi Osemele (2016) in free agency during McKenzie's tenure. The two veterans were each selected to the Pro Bowl in 2016 and 2017, with Osemele receiving first-team All-Pro honors in 2016.

McKenzie is married to June, a retired attorney. The couple has two daughters, Jasmin and Mahkayla, and two sons, Kahlil and Jalen. Kahlil attended Tennessee and was drafted by Kansas City in 2018 and Jalen attended Southern California and most recently played for Las Vegas in 2024. McKenzie's twin brother, Raleigh, also played 16 seasons in the NFL and was inducted into the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame alongside McKenzie in 2018.

DAVE ZIEGLER

ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

Ziegler enters his first season as Assistant General Manager for the Titans after being hired in January 2025.

Ziegler arrives in Tennessee with 15 years of NFL personnel experience. He served as General Manager for the Las Vegas Raiders from 2022-2023 and spent the 2024 season as Senior Personnel Advisor for the New Orleans Saints.

Ziegler broke into the NFL with the Denver Broncos in 2010. While in Denver, he assisted in the scouting and evaluation process of pro and college players, departing after the 2012 season as a pro scout. Ziegler then headed to the New England Patriots, where he was the Assistant Director of Pro Personnel (2013-15), Director of Pro Personnel (2016-19), Assistant Director of Player Personnel (2020) and Director of Player Personnel (2021). During his nine seasons (2013-21) with New England, the Patriots won seven division titles, advanced to six conference championship games and claimed three Super Bowl (XLIX, LI, LIII) titles.

As General Manager in Las Vegas, Ziegler led the Raiders' acquisition of wide receiver Davante Adams via trade with Green Bay during the 2022 offseason. That season, Adams was selected to the Pro Bowl and named first-team All-Pro, finishing with 100 receptions for 1,516 yards and a league-high 14 scores. In Ziegler's first draft as general manager, the Raiders selected offensive guard Dylan Parham in the third round. Parham was named to the PFWA All-Rookie Team after starting 17 games on an offensive line that helped Raiders running back Josh Jacobs lead the league with 1,653 rushing yards.

Before entering the NFL, Ziegler enjoyed a high school and college coaching career with stops at Chaparral High School in Scottsdale, Ariz., as special teams coordinator, at Iona College as a wide receivers and special teams coach, and at his alma mater, John Carroll University, serving in the same role.

A native of Tallmadge, Ohio, Ziegler was an accomplished wide receiver and returner at John Carroll University. He holds several program records including career return yards, return average and return touchdowns.

Ziegler is married to Carissa, and the couple has two sons, Asher and Camden, and a daughter, Georgina.

Racing, fluttering heartbeat?

Atrial fibrillation (AFib) is a quivering or irregular heartbeat that can lead to blood clots, stroke, heart failure, and other heart-related complications.

Know your options. Stay in the game.

Whether you're facing AFib yourself or supporting a loved one, knowing your options is your best play. Medication can often be the first line of defense against AFib, but it may not be the best fit for everyone.

Cardiac catheter ablation can be transformative for patients looking to improve or eliminate symptoms of AFib.

4x More effective

Catheter ablation can be 4x more effective than antiarrhythmic medication alone at preventing the return of the irregular heart rhythm associated with AFib.[1*]

Learn more and find a specialist today at www.GetSmartAboutAFib.com

Don't wait. Ask your doctor about catheter ablation, a minimally invasive technique used to treat AFib without major surgery.[2-5]

*Results reported after 9 months for patients with paroxysmal AFib who had failed 1 antiarrhythmic medication in randomized trial.

Catheter Ablation vs. Medical Treatment in Patients With Atrial Fibrillation. Cureus. 2020;12(8):e9700. Published 2020 Aug 12. doi:10.7759/cureus.9700

As with any medical treatment, individual results may vary. Only a cardiologist or electrophysiologist can determine whether ablation is an appropriate course of treatment. There are potential risks including bleeding, swelling or bruising at the catheter insertion site, and infection. More serious complications are rare, which can include damage to the heart or blood vessels; blood clots (which may lead to stroke); heart attack, or death. These risks need to be discussed with your doctor and recovery takes time. The success of this procedure depends on many factors, including your physical condition and your body's ability to tolerate the procedure. Use care in the selection of your doctors and hospital, based on their skill and experience.

The THERMOCOOL SMARTOUCH™ SF Catheter is indicated for drug refractory recurrent symptomatic persistent atrial fibrillation (AF) (continuous AF > 7 days but < 1 year), refractory or intolerant to at least 1 Class I or III AAD, when used with the CARTO™ 3 System. Important information: Prior to use, refer to the instructions for use supplied with this device for indications, contraindications, side effects, warnings and precautions. Caution: US law restricts this device to sale by or on the order of a physician.

BACON CHEESEBURGER DIP RECIPE

SERVINGS	PREP TIME	COOKING TIME	READY IN
2 People	15 Mins	6 Mins	21 Mins

Ingredients

- 8 ounces ground beef
- 2 cups finely shredded cheddar cheese (about 8 oz.)
- 1 cup Hellmann's® or Best Foods® Mayonnaise Real Mayo
- ½ cup sour cream
- 1 cup chopped tomato
- ⅓ cup chopped red onion
- 4 pieces bacon, crisp - cooked and crumbled

Directions

01 BROWN ground beef in 10-inch nonstick skillet over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally and breaking into small pieces, about 4 minutes; drain. Season, if desired, with salt and pepper.

02 REDUCE heat to medium-low, then stir in cheese, Hellmann's® or Best Foods® Real Mayonnaise and sour cream. Cook, stirring frequently, 6 minutes or until cheese is melted. Turn into shallow 2-quart dish. Top with tomato, onion, bacon and, if desired, pickle chips. Serve, if desired, with sesame bread sticks, crackers or your favorite dippers.

03 Serve, if desired, with sesame bread sticks, crackers, tortilla chips or your favorite dippers.

TITANS SWITCHING TO "TITANS BLUE" AS PRIMARY HOME JERSEY COLOR IN 2025

BY JIM WYATT

During a uniform unveiling party back in April 1999, the Titans showed off their new wardrobe before roughly 1,500 fans outside a shiny new East Bank Stadium.

Some of the team's star players were decked out in the navy home uniforms, some in the road whites.

And for years, the Titans wore those colors well.

Leading up to the 2003 season, the team introduced a new look to players in the locker room – a light blue uniform.

In time, it would simply become known as "Titans blue."

"Steve (McNair) and Eddie (George), they came in the locker room and looked at that jersey and they were like, 'Wow.' It was something different," recalled Joey Barranco, Director, Equipment Operations for the Titans. "They'd worn the two-tone blue before, but it was now reversed, and more light blue. It just popped, and they loved it.

"The players now, they still love it."

Over the years, the Titans have used the light blue in their jerseys, pants, and helmets. It's in the fireball logo. Some have worn light blue cleats, sleeves and wristbands. It's been one constant for the organization since 1960, the first days of the Houston Oilers.

Starting in 2025, the Titans plan to embrace the look more than ever – the team is switching to light blue as the primary home jersey this fall.

"We're talking to fans and we're listening, and there's a clear appetite to have the Titans, their team, represented on the field in this noticeable color that has been with this team from 1960 in Houston, into Memphis, at Vanderbilt and as we've played at Nissan Stadium," Titans President and CEO Burke Nihill said.

"We're going to emphasize that this year and change to Titans blue as the primary color. As we sit here today, the plan is to wear Titans blue at every one of our home games this year."

The team will have the option of wearing their white uniforms on the road, with the navy blue uniforms becoming the alternate uniform. The plan is to be more consistent with uniform combinations this fall, jerseys and pants.

Since first introducing the light blue uniforms at a preseason game in 2003, the Titans have emphasized the "Titans blue" some years more than others.

For a stretch beginning in 2008, the Titans made the light blue color their primary uniform color for several years. The team later wore it as their color rush uniform, and in more recent years supplemented the navy and white uniforms by occasionally wearing the light blue, although it became more of a fixture in 2024, when the Titans wore the light blue four times, including twice in the regular season.

But since the early days of the Oilers, and Titans, it's always been a part of the look.

With the focus on Titans blue in 2025 and into the future, the Titans will not be wearing their throwback Oilers uniforms this upcoming season.

Nihill said the team will continue to pay tribute to players past and present with the light blue uniforms and highlight a color that has been a part of every uniform since 1960.

"Our fans, our players, they love it," Nihill said. "The Titans blue has always been a part of this organization, and there is something that is uniquely this organization when that color is the dominant color.

"You see it, and you know the team that is being represented – it's the Titans."

LONGTIME NFL EXECUTIVE SCOTT PIOLI RECALLS MIKE BORGONZI'S FIRST STEPS ON THE WAY TO BECOMING GENERAL MANAGER OF THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT

The first time Scott Pioli met Mike Borgonzi, it was by chance.

In was 20 years ago, when Pioli was helping build a dynasty as vice president of player personnel for the New England Patriots. Borgonzi, hired back in January as the new general manager of the Tennessee Titans, wasn't even involved in football at the time.

The two just happened to be at a 2005 banquet where Pioli – and Borgonzi's high school football coach in the Boston area – were being inducted into the New England chapter of the National Italian American Sports Hall of Fame.

Then, a few years later, they'd meet again.

This time Borgonzi, who played football at Brown University and later served as tight ends coach at Amherst College, was back in football after spending some time in the business world in mutual fund accounting and sales.

He'd been hired as assistant recruiting coordinator at Boston College, where he was also the pro liaison for NFL scouts.

The two began cultivating a relationship during Pioli's visits to the school in 2007 and 2008, and during that time Pioli discovered Borgonzi's passion to be involved in scouting, and personnel.

So, when Pioli was hired as general manager of the Kansas City Chiefs in 2009, Borgonzi was one of the first people he hired.

When Borgonzi was officially introduced as general manager of the Titans, he thanked his mentor, and friend.

"To Scott Pioli, who believed in me and gave me my first opportunity to work in the National Football League," Borgonzi said, "my family and I will always be indebted to you, Scott."

Borgonzi is in the process of rebuilding the Titans.

After an impressive haul in free agency, and a draft class that included quarterback Cam Ward, there's new excitement in Tennessee.

"I don't know if proud is the right word, because being proud of someone that you mentored and stuff is too self-serving, right? It takes the focus off that person, and I don't want any focus off of Mike," Pioli said from Dallas. "But I am so happy for him and his wife, Jill, and his family. Just genuinely happy for them.

"I am more happy for him than anything, because he's such a good person, and he worked so hard for this. He is someone I have enormous respect for."

Pioli served as general manager of the Chiefs from 2009-2012 before later serving as assistant general manager of the Atlanta Falcons from 2014-2019.

After getting the opportunity from Pioli, Borgonzi remained with the Chiefs for 16 years, including the past four seasons as Kansas City's Assistant General Manager, before being hired as GM of the Titans. Prior to his promotion to Assistant General Manager, Borgonzi served as Director of Football Operations (2018-20), Director of Player Personnel (2017), Co-Director of Player Personnel (2015-16), Assistant Director of Pro Scouting (2013-14), Pro Personnel Scout (2011-12) and Manager of Football Operations (2010).

Borgonzi joined the Chiefs in 2009 as the club's College Scouting Administrator.

On some days, he was responsible for "airport pickups" for players, or responsible for running errands.

But he quickly worked his way up, into bigger roles.

Pioli chuckled a bit when he talked about how Borgonzi "negotiated" his salary before accepting the job, and it allowed him to make more money than he'd initially been offered.

"Mike was smart in every way, and hard-working," Pioli said. "Everyone I talked to about him talked about how hard he worked, and he did.

"He listened more than he talked, and when he talked, he had strong opinions without being overbearing. He definitely had strong opinions. And for Mike, there was no job that was too big, and there was no job too small.

"I remember Mike was a film-watcher, he was a student of the game," Pioli added. "He was a grinder, and he knew how to study film, he knew what to look for. He knew the game, so he knew what he was looking at, and evaluating. He was looking at defensive backs and he knew the difference between Cover 2 and Cover 3 and what the responsibilities were. He knew the game, so he was a good evaluator."

Borgonzi said he watched, and he learned, from Pioli along the way.

Pioli was named NFL Executive of the Year five times and the NFL Executive of the Decade for 2000-10. Pioli's NFL career spans over 27 years, including five trips to the Super Bowl, three Super Bowl championships, four AFC championships, six AFC East titles, and an NFC Championship. He has held multiple executive positions, including General Manager, Assistant General Manager, and Vice President Personnel in various organizations, including the New England Patriots, Kansas City Chiefs and Atlanta Falcons.

"I learned a lot from Scott," Borgonzi said. "He was a very detailed person, his processes, his structure, the way they did things. As a young person coming up in the business, that's what I try and teach all our guys now, just to be detailed in everything that you do. A lot of that, Scott taught me. Of course he taught me a lot about evaluation of the players, too."

During Borgonzi's time in Kansas City, he contributed to 12 playoff seasons and three Super Bowl championships (2019, 2022-23).

In Tennessee, he takes over a team coming off a 3-14 season, with a 9-25 mark over the past two seasons.

So, how does Pioli think his long-time friend will do?

"If they allow him to do what he is capable of, and if he is in a job and in a role to do what he is capable of," Pioli said, "he will be very successful.

"He has the qualities, he has the work ethic, the knowledge and the integrity. And he knows that talent is very important, but he also understands team building is more important than talent collecting."

CAM WARD WASN'T ALONE ON HIS LONG JOURNEY TO THE NFL, AND THE TITANS, AND HE'LL FOREVER BE THANKFUL FOR SUPPORT FROM HIS PARENTS

BY JIM WYATT

Cam Ward played in 57 games in college, at Incarnate Word, Washington State and the University of Miami.

How many games did his parents attend?

"57 of 57," Calvin Ward, Cam's father, said with a smile.

It wasn't easy, especially those two seasons when Ward was quarterback at Washington State, located in Pullman, Washington.

Those years it took Calvin and Patrice Ward, who live in West Columbia, Texas, roughly nine hours to get to one of their son's home games. A typical travel weekend those days looked like this: Driving an hour to Houston Hobby Airport, catching a flight from Houston to Denver (layover) and then flying to Spokane, Wash., getting a rental car, and driving another 1 ½ hours to Pullman.

After the game, and a quick visit with Cam, they'd retrace their steps back to Texas.

"In Cam's two years at Washington State," said Calvin Ward, "the closest games were at USC and UCLA (in Los Angeles)."

But for the Wards, it was all worth it.

They saw their son blossom from a zero-star recruit coming out of high school to one of the nation's top quarterbacks, and the first overall pick of the 2025 NFL Draft, by the Titans.

"It's been a long journey, but it's been worth it," Calvin Ward said. "Every curve we've had to go through, every stop sign we've had to stop at, it led us to this, and it's all been worth it."

Calvin Ward, a fuel buyer for a nuclear power plant, and Patrice Ward, a longtime high school special education teacher and basketball coach who has since retired, both had to adjust their work schedules, and life, to make it happen.

Seeing their son get drafted, and then following him to Tennessee, has been one of their life's highlights so far.

"We've prayed about this," Patrice Ward said. "Tennessee is the right place for Cameron. I prayed about it, and started manifesting on it. God always leads us in the right direction, and he led us to Tennessee. And we're all so happy about it.

"Cam knows without God none of this is possible, and he has that faith and believes in God."

Calvin Ward said Cam Ward never gave up on his dream, despite dealing with adversity, and doubters.

"I am very proud, because I think the average athlete would have stopped," Calvin Ward said. "In high school, you're told you're not good enough to play college football. Then, in order to get a chance, you have to go to this FCS school (and prove yourself).

"A lot of kids would have been like, I'm good. But he was like: Let's go."

Surrounded by family at the NFL Draft, and on the trip to Nashville after he was selected, Cam Ward said he'll never be able to repay his parents for what they've invested in him.

Ward has always appreciated their support.

"Just what they sacrificed since I was a kid all the way to high school, to where I am now," he said. "They sacrificed financially for me. Time-wise, there's days my dad would wake up at 5:00 a.m., we'd drive halfway across Texas to get to camps. I'll never be able to repay them. But I just hope me being able to repay them one way is just by putting on for them and the family on the field.

"But financially, time-wise, since I was a kid, they've sacrificed so much. And I just think everything they did for me is starting to pay off for them as well."

The Wards are looking forward to non-stop flights to Nashville, where they already have friends in town.

A former next-door neighbor, in fact, moved to Nashville.

Ward has already rewarded his mother once recently, when he stepped on the stage with the NFL Commissioner.

"My mom wanted a nice picture of me and Mr. Roger Goodell in her living room," Ward said. "My mom told me: Just make sure you and Mr. Goodell are smiling in the picture. So, I gave my mom what she wanted."

JELLY ROLL MAKES TRIP TO NFL HONORS AT SUPER BOWL LIX TO SUPPORT TITANS DL JEFFERY SIMMONS ON RED CARPET, THEN HE WALKED ON STAGE IN FULL UNIFORM

BY JIM WYATT

Jeffery Simmons was at NFL Honors back in February as the Titans' nominee for the Walter Payton Man of the Year.

Musician Jelly Roll was also there for an on-stage skit with rapper Snoop Dogg, and three days before Super Bowl LIX, he took the stage in full uniform, Titans head to toe.

What Simmons didn't find out until just before taking the Red Carpet was that Jelly Roll made plans to come to the event so he could walk with him in a show of support, and appreciation, for his work in the community.

"Jeff Simmons, he's the reason I'm here," Jelly Roll said. "I know that Jeff has done a lot in (Nashville), and he always has. He's been a philanthropy first kind of guy, he's been a 'do it instead of talk about it' kind of guy since he got here and he's proven himself time and time again.

"He is special man. I am here for Jeff Simmons."

Considered one of the league's most prestigious honors, the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award recognizes an NFL player for outstanding community service activities off the field, as well as excellence on the field. One player from each team is selected each year, and Simmons has been Tennessee's nominee for the past two seasons.

Among the things Simmons took an interest in this past year was a community endeavor close to Jelly Roll's heart.

Last December, a big group of Titans went to the Juvenile Justice Center in Nashville to spend time with some of the kids. It's a facility Jelly Roll spent time in as a troubled youth.

Simmons jumpstarted the team's efforts to the visit after Jelly Roll visited with the Titans at Ascension Saint Thomas Sports Park earlier in the fall.

"He chased me out the door," Jelly Roll said of Simmons. "I felt the ground shaking and it was Jeffery Simmons chasing me out the door saying: When do you want to go do that? He's just a different guy."

Simmons said he was touched by Jelly Roll making the effort to be there for him.

The two have become friends over the past year, and the connection clearly means something to both men.

Jelly Roll pointed to the "Give 'Em a Reason" jacket Simmons wore on the Red Carpet as they both posed for photographs, patting him on the back in the process. Simmons started the foundation during his time in Tennessee.

"Man, it means a lot," Simmons said of Jelly Roll. "I walked back to his tour bus, and to hear him say he was here for me, it is one of those dreams come true. Growing up, I never would have thought a country music singer like Jelly Roll would come to an event like this just to support me.

"He's the type of guy we used to look up to, and we still look up to. Just to be in Tennessee, playing in Tennessee, and Jelly Roll grew up in Tennessee and is a fan of the Tennessee Titans and a fan of mine, it is just a blessing. I am blessed to be in Jelly Roll's circle, it is amazing. To have Jelly Roll here, it's big."

Simmons – and Titans fans watching NFL Honors on television – later got a big kick out of seeing Jelly Roll take the stage at the awards show.

With Snoop Dogg decked out in a Steelers uniform, Jelly Roll came out in a Titans uniform, including shoulder pads and pants, carrying his Titans helmet.

"If anyone deserves a shot in this league, it's me," Jelly Roll, wearing No. 93, said to Snoop Dogg. "Forget the Tush Push, your team needs the Jelly Belly."

"We may need to add Jelly Roll to the d-line," Simmons said with a smile. "He can add some depth for that."

With a smile, Jelly Roll said he'll be ready if the Titans ever need him.

"I can give them as many snaps as they need," Jelly Roll said. "Titan Up, baby."

TITANS LONG SNAPPER MORGAN COX IMPACTED ONCE AGAIN BY "SOUL-SCARRING" MISSION TRIP TO UGANDA

BY JIM WYATT

Morgan Cox traveled to Uganda this offseason to make an impact.

Cox, long snapper for the Tennessee Titans, had also previously traveled to the country in East Africa as part of a mission trip.

It turns out the trip made an even bigger impact on Cox, and his perspective.

Nothing validated that feeling more than the lasting memory of a man living in a mud hut handing Cox a rooster as a show of appreciation for his work, and good deeds, for the people in Uganda. The man had recognized Cox from his first mission trip there in 2019.

"We always describe going to Africa and spending time there as a soul-scarring trip," Cox said. "It's not an easy trip, but it's a very impactful trip to see what goes on in the world and to see how people live.

"The nature of the Christian faith is going out and making disciples of all nations, so being able to share our faith but also taking care of basic needs is the premise, being able to help the people there take care of their children."

Cox, a Collierville, Tennessee, native who played at the University of Tennessee, is heading into his 16th NFL season, and his fifth with the Titans. He's been named to five Pro Bowls, and he was recently selected as the long snapper for ESPN's All-Quarter-Century NFL team.

Cox has made it part of his life's mission to give back to others, and his mindset was put on display once again when he traveled to Uganda as part of a mission initiative team from Grace Evangelical Church in Memphis.

Cox joined 12 others on a trip to Uganda, where the group spent a week assisting those at a village and school that houses 750 kids, ranging from ages from 3 to 22. The school first started years ago under a jackfruit tree, where the school administrator taught kids in the dirt.

Now the kids have a building and desks, and a secondary school, or high school, has been an added to the elementary school.

Cox and another member of the church started a team to travel and help those in a community in Uganda. During his trip in 2019, Cox was part of a group that started the boarding school, and a medical clinic.

During the two trips, including the most recent one, the group has built desks and tables for the school, provided a water well, provided a generator for lighting while also spending time with the kids, playing sports, hosting a field day, and a craft station. The group bought a cow for them to have protein.

Many people in the area live in mud huts, with little resources.

Cox and the others went there once again to help, and for ministry work, to talk about the gospel, telling them about Jesus and faith in Christ.

"God has blessed me with the occupation that I have, and I've always felt a calling for helping others through it," Cox said. "So going to Uganda and being able to help a community there that is clearly in need ... You know anything that you give them is going to be received well and impactful."

Cox said the mission initiative team at the church plans to continue returning to Uganda to help those in need.

From his first trip in 2019 to his trip this offseason, Cox said he's been humbled to see the difference that has been made by those who've traveled from Memphis.

He's also aware of the appreciation from those in Uganda. He can see it on the faces of the kids, and from the gesture of the man with the rooster.

"From the kindness of his heart, he wanted to feed me, and feed our group," Cox said.

Cox said he will never forget the man's message – and the fact the rooster ended up defecating on him as he held it.

"Through a translator, the man said: Morgan, thanks for coming back to see us. We are so thankful. May the Lord bless you and your family. I would like for you to have this rooster," Cox said.

"I would never be able to repay him for the message he gave me."

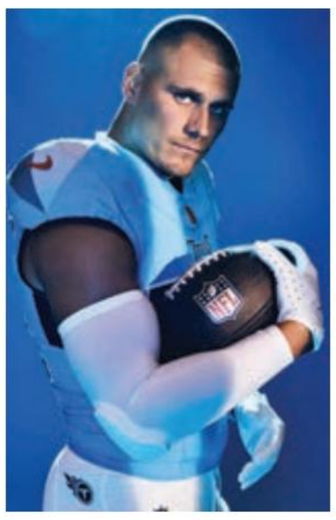
HOW CODY BARTON WENT FROM BEING THE "RUNT OF THE LITTER" TO A STARTING LINEBACKER IN THE NFL, NOW WITH THE TITANS

BY JIM WYATT



Cody Barton kept the faith.

As a 5-foot-8, 160-pound sophomore – when he was dwarfed by a 6-foot-4, 290-pound brother who was just a year older – he always felt like his time would come.

From an early age, his athletic parents had Barton and his three siblings believing hard work would make anything possible.

The mindset resulted in him developing from the "runt of the litter" to a prep star, and earning a college scholarship. It also paved the way for him to earn an opportunity in the NFL, and it eventually led him to Tennessee, where the Titans are counting on the inside linebacker to be a key piece in the middle of their defense in 2025.

"My dad always told us: Hard work is the only recipe," said Barton, who joined the Titans as free agent back in March after playing previously with the Seahawks, Commanders and Broncos. "The thing my dad always taught me, and he would tell me personally, being that I was the late bloomer in the family: "The cream always rises to the top."

"And I've always applied that to my career. No matter what, always keep working and just outwork the competition, and eventually the cream is going to rise to the top."

Barton, who is 6-foot-2, 237 pounds these days, put the work in to get to where he is today.

It turns out Barton has been on a mission since he was 10 years old, after receiving a pep talk from his father, and then being put on a strict regimen with his siblings.

Playing sports, you see, is what the Bartons do.

Father Paul Barton, who is 6-6, played football and baseball at the University of Utah, and he had a brief stint in the minor leagues with the Toronto Blue Jays. Mother Mikki-Kane Barton, who is six-foot, played volleyball and basketball at Utah, and is a member of the school's Crimson Club Hall of Fame.

Jackson Barton, the oldest son, played on the offensive line at Utah and has spent time with five NFL clubs, most recently the Arizona Cardinals. Cody Barton came along 15 months later, then came sister Dani, a former member of the U.S. women's national volleyball team who was an All-America performer at Utah. Baby brother Jackson is currently a senior on the football team at Utah.

Cody Barton said his father trained all the children – mentally and physically -- to earn their way. His mother provided encouragement and support, resulting in what Barton, with a smile, a "good cop, bad cop" scenario.

"My dad said: I'm going to do everything I can to help you guys get a full scholarship at the University of Utah, and go pro," Cody Barton recalled. "He's like, if you guys are committed to that, I am going to do everything I can. He was like, "You're not going to like me, but ...

"As a 10-year-old, I was like: "Let's do it."

Cody Barton remembers waking up every morning with his 11-year-old brother Jackson, initially doing jump rope, planks, wall sits, and running. As they got older, they began lifting weights.

"My dad would push us," Barton said. "It was more about teaching us the power of the mind, and when you're tired, you can really go a lot further than you think. Us getting up at 5 a.m., it was more learning the discipline of getting up at 5. No one wants to get up at 5. So, it was teaching us the power of discipline and hard work and how far that can get you."

All the Barton children earned scholarships to Utah, even though it took Cody until his second semester of his freshman year. He's still motivated by that.

The hard work continued as Cody Barton got older.

Barton's father and uncle are first generation ranchers – they started a ranch in Duchesne, Utah in 2002.

Cody Barton grew up working on the ranch, moving water lines, baling hay, fixing fences and other chores with horses, cows, chickens, turkeys, and other wildlife around him.

Barton admits when he returns to the ranch these days, he's more interested in fishing, riding horses and looking for deer and elk horns.

But he's still all about the hard work, especially on the football field.

A six-year pro, Barton racked up over 100 tackles for the third straight season last year for the Broncos.

A third-round draft pick of the Seahawks in 2019, Barton has started 43 games in his career, including 38 games in the last three seasons for Seattle, Washington and Denver.

Over the last three seasons, Barton is one of only five NFL linebackers (Fred Warner, Tremaine Edmunds, Roquan Smith and Logan Wilson) to post 100+ tackles each season and total 5 or more interceptions over that timeframe.

Barton tallied a career-high 136 tackles in 2022 before recording 121 tackles in 2023 and 106 in 2024 while in Denver.

In Tennessee, he's ready to do his part in a new defense, in a city he'd never visited prior to signing. When he drives his massive dually truck around Nashville, he still wonders why the residential roads aren't wider.

Yet he feels like his timing is perfect here.

Back in high school, Barton didn't play his first three years because he was a late bloomer, but he finally started on varsity as a senior.

In college at Utah, he wasn't a starter his first three years, only stepping into the starting lineup when others got hurt. In his final college season, however, he started all 14 games and led the team with 116 tackles, along with four sacks and an interception.

In the NFL, Barton paid his dues his first three years in the league on special teams, while playing behind some good, veteran players on defense. But his career took off in year four, and he's been a highly productive player ever since.

Barton, whose middle name Likeke is of Hawaiian origin and means "courageous chief," feels like he's in Tennessee at just the right time.

He's ready to lead, and produce.

"Even when I was younger, I knew at some point it was going to be my time," Barton said. "I've always been a pretty positive, optimistic person. I always have that belief it's going to happen. If you really believe in something, it's going to happen.

"I feel like I'm very blessed, and feel very fortunate to be here. And I am looking forward to growing this thing, growing the culture, growing the wins, and just keep going. Everyone is hungry, and so am I."

Titans fans, what a year it's been at the New Nissan Stadium!

Since construction began in March 2024, we've been hard at work building the foundation for your future home. We started with massive excavation, sturdy footings, and deep support piers, then rose into a towering concrete superstructure and now steel stretching high into the skyline.

With the structure set, the stadium is truly coming to life—expansive terraces are taking shape, the seating bowl is emerging, and the 360-degree connected concourses are wrapping all the way around the building so you can roam without ever losing sight of the field. When you settle into your seats—up to 38% closer to the action than in our current home—you'll feel every snap, every tackle, every touchdown like never before.

Right now, our crews are racing to install the elements that will create the stadium's iconic "perfect circle" ETFE roof, locking in the look of our enclosed, climate-controlled home. More than 4,000 dedicated workers have poured nearly 3 million hours into this project, and with every beam, panel, and concrete piece set, we're getting closer to welcoming you in 2027. The next year will be one of transformation—watch as our future home gains its shape, its energy, and its soul. When those doors open, we'll be ready to make new Titans memories—together.

COMMUNITY IMPACT REPORT

What makes Tennessee so special is its people — resilient, passionate, and united by a spirit of teamwork and friendship that defines our communities. It's unique and intangible: a deep sense of pride, a commitment to each other, and a belief that together, we can accomplish anything.

At the Tennessee Titans, we believe in the power of sports not just to entertain, but to inspire. We believe that a football team can be more than what happens on the field — it can be a connector, a catalyst, and a force for good. Whether it's investing in education, supporting families, promoting wellness, or strengthening neighborhoods, we are honored to work alongside community partners who are making a difference every day.

Thank you for allowing us to be part of your communities. We are grateful for the opportunity to serve, and we are excited for the future we can build together.

Amy Adams Strunk
Owner of the Tennessee Titans

Amy Adams Strunk

Our mission to win, serve and entertain guides everything we do.

"Serve" isn't just a word in our mission — it's a core value that drives our people, our culture, and our vision for the future. Whether it's through volunteering, investing in local organizations, or finding new ways to lift up our neighbors, our team is committed to doing the work.

We're proud of the progress we've made, but we're even more excited about what's ahead. Thank you to everyone who has locked arms in this effort — our community partners, players, staff, and fans. We're grateful to be part of something bigger than football.

With appreciation,
Burke Nihill

ROOTED IN TRADITION. DRIVEN BY IMPACT.

OPPORTUNITY - NEIGHBORHOODS - EDUCATION

At the Tennessee Titans, our mission extends far beyond the field. We believe the true measure of a team's greatness lies in its impact off the field—how it shows up for its people, its neighborhoods, and its future. That's why our commitment to community is more than tradition—it's a legacy in motion.

From the roar of the crowd on Sundays to the quiet, everyday work of creating opportunity, we are building something that lasts. Through generational fandom, we connect families, unite neighbors, and ignite pride across Tennessee. Through generational change, we invest in the people and places that shape tomorrow—creating pathways to education, wellness, and equity that empower every generation to rise.

Together, these values drive our purpose and our promise to WIN. SERVE. ENTERTAIN.

OPPORTUNITY

From workforce development to unforgettable experiences, we unlock the tools, access, and opportunities that spark generational change.

PROJECT DESTINED

In 2022, ONE Community launched the first Sports Venue and Real Estate Development Bridge Program cohort with inaugural community partner Project Destined, an organization created to introduce young adults to real estate and commercial development by learning from key industry experts.

The partnership between Project Destined and the Tennessee Titans was established to teach young adults about stadium development by providing them with hands-on experience and an opportunity to learn firsthand from industry experts in the areas of construction, conceptual design, and development. Students from three local Universities, including Tennessee State University, Nashville State Community College and Fisk University have the opportunity to complete this program.

Upon completion of the program, students receive a $500 stipend, as well as financial literacy guidance provided by ONE Community partner, Citizens Savings Bank & Trust Company.

Several students have found job and mentorship opportunities within the Real Estate Development industry since completing the program.

“As a college student, the program played a crucial role in my academic journey, offering networking opportunities and connecting me to local resources that enriched my college experience.

TITANS CONSTRUCTION TRAINING CAMP

In early 2024, the Tennessee Titans and the Tennessee Builders Alliance announced the launch of a paid work experience training program to support the construction of the New Nissan stadium. The Titans Construction Training Camp (TC2) is a three-week program designed to equip new builders with knowledge of workplace safety, construction math, and the ability to operate basic power and hand tools. Upon completion, builders will be prepared to start their careers in the construction industry.

New builders receive an hourly wage of $18/hour of training time, individualized educational support and two nationally recognized industry certifications (National Center for Construction Education and Research and Occupational Safety and Health Administration). These benefits tailor toward the goal of the program which is to create economic independence for Middle Tennesseans by offering training and career opportunities.

To date, the Titans Construction Training Camp (TC2) has graduated 42 participants, with 6 completers hired directly by construction partners, 15 completers hired by trade partners for other construction projects in Nashville and 5 completers continuing their educational journey. Of those who completed the program in 2024, 33% were formerly incarcerated and 66% were those from the Nashville Promise Zone (individuals from high poverty neighborhoods)

MAKE-A-WISH

Karsen, a 5-year-old boy diagnosed with congenital heart disease, has been a lifelong fan of T-Rac and the Tennessee Titans. Despite the countless surgeries and procedures he's had to undergo to treat his heart, his love for the Tennessee Titans and his unwavering joyful spirit have never faded.

This past year, Karsen's wish was brought to life through a partnership between the Titans and Make-A-Wish Middle Tennessee. T-Rac kicked off the surprise by visiting Karsen's home in Clarksville, Tennessee, where he presented him with tickets to attend a day at Titans training camp. But the excitement didn't end there – after practice, Titans wide receiver Jha'Quan Jackson revealed that Karsen's wish of becoming T-Rac junior would come true at the Titans vs. Colts game in October. On his special day, Karsen got to wear a customized T-Rac junior costume and ride out with T-Rac for pregame activities.

The Titans joined local leaders Tractor Supply Foundation and Cleary Construction to partner with First Lady Maria Lee and national nonprofit, KABOOM! to build a brand-new, accessible playground in Clay County through her initiative, Tennessee Serves.

This playground represents an investment of over $285,000 in the success and wellbeing of the Clay County community. Investments in local parks and play spaces can have substantial economic benefits, especially in struggling communities.

TACKLING THE DIGITAL DIVIDE

The digital divide remains an accessibility challenge that impacts the entire community. Whether you are a small business owner looking to expand into e-commerce, a neighbor looking to connect with others, or a student needing to complete an assignment, digital accessibility and literacy is a necessity.

Last season, ONE Community installed a technology lab at the Looby Community Center in North Nashville giving neighbors the space and equipment to complete homework, study for tests and play games with friends. To date, the digital lab at the Looby Community Center has seen over 50,000 users.

This season, ONE Community installed two new Technology Lab Centers. WALTER PAYTON MAN OF THE YEAR

Jeffery Simmons

Tennessee Titans Defensive Lineman

Titans defensive lineman Jeffery Simmons is the team's nominee for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award for the second year in a row. Considered one of the league's most prestigious honors, the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award recognizes an NFL player for outstanding community service activities off the field, as well as excellence on the field.

"I got emotional (when I found out)," Simmons said on Wednesday. "I always say: It's a blessing to be a blessing. God put me in a position to be able to bless, and help others. And, to put a smile on the faces of others in the community, it means a lot. … It feels great, especially with me, knowing where I came from. I want to be a light in the community, and this means a lot to me and my family. I always tell people I don't do it for awards. I do it because I care."

Simmons was honored to be selected in back-to-back years. "Being considered for Walter Payton Man of the Year for a second time is truly one of the greatest honors of my career," he said. "I am grateful for the opportunity to play the game, but even more thankful for the platform it offers me and the ways I can bless others. I realize there is more work for me to do in the community and I will continue to make that one of my greatest priorities and passions. I am truly thankful to the Titans organization and the NFL for supporting my efforts and helping champion my mission."

As a nominee, Simmons will wear a Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year helmet decal through the end of the season in recognition of his accomplishments on and off the field. "I am continually proud of the level of commitment our players show the community. Their influence is powerful, and Jeffery is a perfect example of someone who is using their platform for good," said Titans head coach Brian Callahan. "He embodies everything the Walter Payton Man of the Year award stands for – leadership on and off the field, working tirelessly to inspire others and be the best man and teammate possible."

Since launching the Give Em A Reason Foundation in 2022, Simmons, raised by a single mother with five children, has consistently hosted a number of giveback initiatives as part of his non-profit's mission to serve others through youth empowerment and self-esteem-building opportunities.

Through his "Give Em a Reason" Foundation, Simmons hopes to offer kids from a similar background a reason to hope, reach, grow and never give up. Simmons hand selects the organizations who will benefit, and he goes beyond writing checks, he shows up. He sees the need for male role models and mentors, and he answers the call.

"Each and every day that's my goal," Simmons said. "If I see a young kid, I never turn a kid down for a picture because they look up to us, and we set examples by giving back to our community. We need to let these kids know they can be here, no matter if they want to be a lawyer, or whatever it may be, you know, whatever. Never give up on your dreams."

SUSTAINABILITY

The Titans and Nissan Stadium are dedicated to promoting a sustainable future and driving impactful solutions. Our core values are closely aligned with our sustainability goals. We WIN by reducing energy, water, and waste; we SERVE by enhancing the local environment; and we ENTERTAIN by promoting and advancing initiatives with our purpose-driven partners.

In 2024, we launched two pilot programs to start our journey as we build toward the new stadium: can and bottle recycling with Coca-Cola and waste diversion with WM Advisory Services.

As we build the New Nissan Stadium, we are charting a new course to reduce waste and conserve millions of gallons of water each year.
